Projects

Real Estate Management System

During my Java full stack course, I worked on a project called "Real Estate Management System", aimed at developing a comprehensive software solution for managing real estate listings.

- The project allows users to register, search for real estate listings, submit inquiries about properties, manage their own listings, list properties for sale, and purchase properties, all while interacting with the platform in a user-friendly manner.
- For this project, I utilized Spring for backend development, a DBMS for managing data, and HTML, CSS, JavaScript, AJAX and Bootstrap for frontend design and functionality.
